

ABSTRACT

The present invention has for an object an agent for dyeing hair which contains at least one vat dye reduced by a compound which in an alkaline medium forms an enediol, said
5 agent having a pH of 4 to 11, as well as a method for dyeing hair by use of said agent at a physiologically tolerable pH followed by reoxidation of the vat dye.